

Solution Brief: Benefit Management & Enrollment

The Situation:

Moving to a paperless process for benefit management, including open and ongoing enrollment and life-event changes, has been proven to be one of the easiest ways for an organization to save money. The challenge for small to mid-sized organizations, however, is that they often lack the technology necessary to reliably take advantage of these savings

The Impact:

To varying degrees, most small to mid-sized companies still have paper-based benefit management processes. Aside from the negative impact on productivity, these inefficiencies also result in measurable financial losses.

Premium payments for terminated or ineligible employees and dependents can go unnoticed for months due to a lack of auditability and control.
